Are you a PhD student or postdoc with a discovery to share on camera?

Are you interested in getting science communication training?
iBiology Young Scientist Seminars Competition

A video series featuring PhD students and postdocs giving talks about their research and discoveries.

Four winners will travel to UCSF to receive science communication training from the Alda Center for Communicating Science and iBiology, share their discovery on camera, and receive $500.

Submit your application materials by Dec. 10, 2017:
- Cover letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Short description of your discovery
- Letter of recommendation

For more information and to apply: bit.ly/youngsci2018