Taking a Political Step: Public Policy and Policy Advocacy Leadership after Graduate School

Fall 2018 Advocacy Mentor Circle: Bradley Grams
Senior Program Analyst • U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

This Mentor Circle is meant to foster a discussion about why public policy and advocacy work should matter to all graduate students and researchers, even if it is not their career choice. Specific topics will include:

(1) Getting involved in (or leaving) Public Policy and Advocacy Careers
(2) Leadership in Public Policy vs. Advocacy
(3) How Public Policy is Made
(4) Public Policy and Advocacy Leadership as part of Career Development
(5) Important Public Policy and Advocacy Skills to consider for any Career

By the conclusion of the Mentor Circle, students will see where, when, why, and how public policy and advocacy work matter, not only to themselves but also to society at large!
