The Graduate Scholar-in-Residence program allows Ph.D. candidates to be in residence at the Newberry for an academic year. We promise intriguing and often rare materials from our world-class collections in the humanities; a lively, interdisciplinary community of researchers; individual consultations with curators, librarians, and other scholars; and an array of both scholarly and public programs.

The Graduate Scholar Program encourages local graduate students who have advanced to candidacy, or ABD status, to apply to be in residence. If selected, students must spend at least 10 hours per week in residence during the academic year, which we define as September 2018 to May 2019. Further, they are expected to participate in the Newberry Community through regular attendance of the Fellows’ Seminar (periodic Tuesdays at 3:30 pm), Fellows’ Lunch (weekly Thursdays at 12:30 pm) and Colloquium (weekly Wednesdays at 4 pm).

Although the Newberry cannot offer remuneration to participants of the Graduate Scholar Program, we can offer several privileges, including a private research carrel, access to the Newberry during extended hours, opportunities to present research and dissertation chapters, and support from the Newberry’s interdisciplinary and intellectual scholarly community.

The deadline to apply to the Graduate Scholar-in-Residence Program is quickly approaching; submit your application before 11:59 CST on May 15, 2019 to be considered.

Applicants will be notified about the outcome of their application in June 2019.
